

Myrna Blyth, M.A.

---

Myrna Blyth, formerly the editor-in-chief of Ladies' Home Journal and the founding editor and publishing director of More magazine is now an editor, writer, and editorial consultant. She is the author of the New York Times best seller "Spin Sisters," which was published in March 2004. The paperback edition was released in February 2005. Currently she writes a weekly column on women, media, and politics for National Review Online and a weekly column on media for the New York Sun. She also contributes essays and reviews to National Review and the New York Post.

Besides her membership on the Advisory Committee for the Office of Research on Women's Health at the National Institutes of Health, she is a Commissioner on the President's Commission on White House Fellows. She is also on the Advisory Committee for the National Council on the Aging and is a member of the board on the Hazel K. Goddess Fund for Stroke Research.